Ocean Inlet is a special retreat in that its two accommodation styles aim to share their setting with a range of budgets. On one hand there are two contemporary apartments: Shorehouse is on two levels and features a large lounge/dining with gas fire downstairs and a spa bedroom upstairs with lighthouse views; the two-bedroom Coral Cove is equally captivating and can connect with Shorehouse to form one luxuriously large pad. The other offering is dubbed the Campers Cabin, although clearly camping has evolved since we last did it. Here, two pavilions (one for sleeping and one for bathing and cooking) are nestled at the bottom of a ti-tree garden. The garden love-swing has views over the inlet to the lighthouse and echoes the romance of Shorehouse's spa suite, for more a modest rate. Which to choose? For those on a budget the Campers Cabin offers style and views, while Shorehouse and Coral Cove are decidedly decadent and worth the splurge.

Location: 120 km or 1½ hours southwest of Melbourne. Map 6. Melway X911 C10.
Facilities: Two apartments (can connect): Shorehouse: two levels with lounge/dining (gas fire, kitchenette), queen bedroom, spa ensuite. Coral Cove: one level with two queen bedrooms, lounge, bathroom. Campers Cabin and Gazebo: two pavilions: 'Eat, Bathe' and 'Sleep'. Full breakfast provisions provided in Shorehouse; others self-catering (full or continental breakfast provisions available).
